Our Loss - NRHA Hall of Fame Topsail Whiz

From NRHA.com

The reining world lost one of its own when the great Topsail Whiz had to be humanely put down on Dec. 23, after complications from surgery to repair damaged vertebrae in his spine. The sport's first and only Six Million Dollar Sire transformed the industry and helped to define the modern reining horse.

Owner/breeder and Hall of Famer Bob Loomis said of his Hall of Fame stallion: "He wasn't just any horse; he was a member of the family. There will never be another one like him."

Tragically for Bob and his wife Pam, they had just put down their Whiz son and junior stallion, West Coast Whiz, a few weeks earlier, due to founder. December has not been kind to the Loomises.

Loomis said he noticed problems with Whiz last spring, but the stallion made it through breeding season just fine. Then, in late summer/early fall Loomis realized Whiz was having difficulties with his balance. It wasn't until the day after the NRHA Futurity, Dec. 6, when Bob really saw some changes in Whiz and immediately took him to Weems and Stephens Equine Hospital in Aubrey, Texas. There, veterinarians diagnosed him with a rare condition affecting the C6 and C7 vertebrae in the horse's lower neck, which were pinching on his spine. Surgery was the only option to relieve the problem.

"I flew in Dr. Barry Grant, the leading equine neurosurgeon in the country, for the surgery," said Loomis.

Dr. Grant (from Bonsall, California) and Dr. John Janicek (of Weems and Stephens) performed a successful ventral intervertebral body fusion on Whiz Dec. 17. The horse was recovering nicely when he suffered severe complications that caused him to have to be euthanized a week later.

"We did everything we could to save him," said Loomis, "but we couldn't."

Topsail Whiz is buried under some pecan trees in front of the new barn Bob and Pam have built on their newly constructed facility, just down from the original Loomis Ranch in Marietta, Oklahoma.

Loomis has 22 years of fond memories of the 1987 son of his other Hall of Fame stallion, Topsail Cody. But his favorite moment on Whiz was winning 1991 Lazy E Classic, in Guthrie, Oklahoma.

"The pen is so big there," he said. "Few horses can run to a stop as hard as they can go and nail it, but Whiz could. He was so physical, like his dad, just like all the Joe Codys were."

"I knew he was going to be great after the second time I rode him. I had sold him to some Germans when he was younger, and when I asked them to price him, they did so at five times what they paid me for him. I never hesitated and wired them the money. It was the smartest thing I've ever done."

RMRHA Stallion Stakes Program Details

Donate A Breeding

Stallion owners can donate one or more breeding services to RMRHA by mailing a stallion contract (available on the RMRHA website) to RMRHA. The stallion's regular stud fee will be listed in the amount advertised for the auction. For any stallion that is advertised as a Private Treaty Breeding Fee, that fee must be listed with a dollar value on the RMRHA Breeding Contract. Chute fees shall be the responsibility of the mare owner and payable directly to the stallion owner/agent. All vet fees, mare care, and shipped semen charges are also the responsibility of the mare owner.

Distribution of Program Funds

The money from nominated stallions is committed 20% for operating expenses, awards and promotion of the program and 10% for annual sire awards; the remaining 70% will be the added money for the Stallion Stakes division of the Summer Slide Futurity: the added money will be split 70% to the Open division and 30% to the Non Pro division. Funds collected from the program are not allocated to Stallion Stakes Derby winners; the RMRHA itself provides a fixed amount of $2,500 added money to the Open and $1,000 added money to the Non Pro division.

All donated Stallions are offered for sale by the RMRHA through an online auction running from February 1st to 6:00 p.m. PST on February 28, 2010. High bidder names and amounts will be visible during February, with winning bidders notified on March 1st. All bids must be at least 50% of the advertised service fee or greater with a minimum bid of $350. Bids must be made in $50 dollar increments. Multiple services may be purchased if so desired, by placing bids on more than one stallion in the auction.

Unsold Services

Any service not sold through the online auction will be available after March 1st for 50% of the advertised service fee (minimum bid $350). These will be on a first come, first served basis until August 31st of the current breeding year. The nomination of a stallion is complete upon the sale of his service. Stallion services will be donated, sold (and thus become eligible) on an annual basis. Stallion owners desiring to have all offspring of that season's breeding qualify in subsequent years eligibility are encouraged to submit a contract for the services of their stallion along with a check after March 1st, but no later than August 31st, for 50% of the advertised service fee (minimum $350). No further enrollments at the 1/2 price fee will be accepted after August 31st. See "Retroactive Eligibility" for paying up stallions who failed to be enrolled in prior years.

Show Entry Eligibility

Every foal sired by a stallion during his nominated period is eligible to compete for RMRHA Stallion Stakes purse money by paying the appropriate entry fee. A list of stallions whose get are eligible to compete in the Futurity or Derby in a given year is available on the RMRHA website. The stallion owner that donates the breeding is entitled to a free entry in the Stallion Stakes. The stallion owner may transfer the free entry to another person provided the stallion owner was also the breeder (the owner of the dam at the time of the service) of that entry. In the case of a rebreed, if the stallion named in the contract is not current in the program, this one foal will still be eligible to participate in the Stallion Stakes Program. It will be the responsibility of the mare owner to notify the Stallion Stakes committee of this situation prior to the end of the year in which the rebreed takes place.

Paybacks

Paybacks for winners are paid per NRHA rules. The 10% set aside for sire awards is split 50/50 between the Open and Non Pro divisions. This money will go to the owner of the stallion (at the time of service) that sired the winning horse in the division.

Retroactive Eligibility

It is possible to make your stallion current in the program if you have not participated in past years. This will require a stallion owner to pay retroactive breeding fees for the years of not participating in the program. In this case, however, the stallion owner must pay full advertised breeding fee for each year, not 50% of the advertised breeding fee. Example: A stallion owner in 2010 wants to make his three year old foals eligible for the 2010 Stallion Stakes Division of the Summer Slide Futurity, but his stallion has not been in the Stallion Stakes Program. The owner must pay full breeding fees for the years of 2006-2007-2008-2009. The 2010 three year olds would have been conceived in 2006, so the stallion must be paid retroactive to that year.

This years auction is hosted by Perfect Horse Auctions (www.perfecthorseauctions.com). The auction will start February 1, 2010, and end on February 28 at 6:00 pm Pacific time.

Look for this and more information on the RMRHA website, www.rmrha.com

Indeed. Topsail Whiz offspring are quickly coming up on $7 million in earnings, just around $200,000 shy of that mark.

One of the amazing things about Whiz is that he “crossed well on everything,” said Loomis. “He would breed just about anything and come up with a futurity finalist.”

Loomis credits Whiz’s prepotency to the cross he made between Topsail Cody (NRHA Futurity Champion) and Jeanie Whiz Bar (AQHA Superior Reining). Topsail Cody contributed his strength, athletic ability, and big stop, while Jeannie Whiz Bar donated her gorgeous looks, low-headedness, and quiet, laid-back temperament to a bloodline that has dominated the reining scene in the last decade.

In fact, Loomis, a self-described mare-side fanatic, gives Jeanie Whiz Bar the credit for transforming the Joe Cody line.

“I had to show against her many times,” explained the six-time NRHA Futurity champion. “She was ridden by a 15-year-old boy (Tom McBeath), who’d win in the youth classes and then beat the pros in the open. It was a humbling experience. So I eventually bought her for my broodmare band.”

Counted among Whiz’s top get are The Great Whiz and Easy Otie Whiz, both earners of over $200,000. His $100,000-plus earners are Whizard Jac, Remin Whiz, Topgun Whiz, West Coast Whiz, Walla Walla Whiz, Whiz N Tag Chex, Wrangle Whiz, Holymasterwhiz, and Conquistador Whiz.

But it wasn’t only in aged-events where the Whizzes left their mark. They were top-notch open horses and solid non pro mounts. A look at the 2009 NRHA world champions tells the story: Star Spangled Whiz (open champion) and Malt Whizkey (non pro reserve champion). The following were in the top 10 in both open and non pro divisions: Laredo Whiz, Cracker Jack Whiz, Gold Card Whiz, Great Kid Whiz, Whizashingwalla BB, The Magic Of Whiz , Honeymoon Whiz, Chex Out Whiz, Peppy San Whiz, Otter Bea Whiz, and Whizin In The Dirt.

“He was a once-in-a-lifetime horse,” said Loomis. “I was a lucky man to have had him.”

WEST COAST WHIZ

Loomis had just purchased Cromed Out Mercedes and will cross him on his Whiz daughters. Loomis is offering frozen semen on both Topsail Whiz (not shipped) and West Coast Whiz for the 2010 breeding season.

Flarida Wins 5th Title

Shawn Flarida won his 5th NRHA Futurity aboard Gunnatrashya. Gunnatrashya (Gunner x Natrashya) and Flarida marked a 228.5 to slide into the NRHA Level 4 Open Futurity Winners Circle.

McCutcheon Wins 6th Title

NRHA Million Dollar Rider Mandy McCutcheon won her 6th NRHA Non Pro Futurity title aboard West Coast Mizzen (West Coast Whiz x Mizzen Shine) after a dramatic run-off with Matthew Armenta and Sparklin Chic (Lena Spark x Dudette Nic). This win ties McCutcheon with NRHA Hall of Famer Bob Loomis for the most NRHA futurity titles.

Equine Rabies found in Colorado

Dr. Clinton Unruh

Dr. Clint Unruh
Colorado Equine Veterinary Services

There has been a recent rise in verified rabies in skunks as well as verified cases of rabies in a horse, a mountain lion, and a cow in El Paso County, Colorado. Skunks that are carrying the virus in the past have been limited to the eastern side of Kansas. In the past few years the reports of skunks that tested positive for the virus have been moving west from the eastern side of Kansas and showing up in eastern Colorado in 2008, with several rabid skunks reported around the Limon area last year. There has not been a case of rabies in domestic livestock in Colorado in over 35 years. Even if you are not in El Paso County, Colorado the threat of rabies in livestock is real.

Rabies is 100% fatal in horses once a horse begins showing clinical signs. The rabies virus is spread through a bite, contact with saliva, or contact with neural tissue (brain, spinal cord, cerebrospinal fluid) of an infected animal. Some of you may be thinking that there is no way that a skunk would bite a horse. For a normal skunk this is probably true, however; skunks that are infected with rabies often times become much less afraid of people and other domesticated animals and what we consider normal behavior for a skunk changes in a rabid one. As an example, the skunk is usually more active at night. A skunk that you see out during the daylight hours has a high probability of being rabid. Also, when a skunk bites a horse it is such a small wound that it most likely would never be recognized as a bite from a skunk and be attributed to a scratch from some other object and most likely would heal without any treatment.

Once a horse is bitten by a rabid skunk, the incubation period (the time between exposure to the disease and development of clinical signs) varies from 5 days to over 1 year with the average being 2 to 4 months. With this length of time the wound most certainly would be healed prior to the horse showing clinical signs of rabies making it impossible to find the place that the virus was introduced into the horse once we recognize that the horse is sick.

Rabies is a zoonotic disease (which means it can be passed from animals to humans.) Rabies can also affect any mammal (such as dogs, cats, llamas, pigs, etc.). It does not infect animals such as birds, reptiles and snakes (which don't need rabies for me to try and avoid). Some of the mammals seem to be more prone to developing clinical rabies. Horses and cattle historically have been the livestock that most of the cases of rabies in domesticated livestock have been reported.

Clinical signs of rabies in horses vary widely. Some signs that are reported include depression with loss of appetite, low grade fever, rapidly progressing lameness, increased sensitivity to touch, colic, and odd behavioral changes. Most of the time horses do not become aggressive and show signs of what we term the "dumb" form of rabies. Due to the wide variability of clinical signs and the fact that there is no reliable test prior to death of an animal, rabies is difficult to diagnose before the horse is dead. Only then can the brain be removed and sent to specific laboratories for confirmation of the disease. By the time that the horse is confirmed to have the disease there are invariably humans that are exposed to rabies by the horse.

With the recent rise of rabid skunks in the Colorado area, the difficult diagnosis, the risk to humans in contact with a rabid horse and the devastation of losing a horse to the disease, the doctors of Colorado Equine Veterinary Services as well as the American Association of Equine Practitioners are strongly recommending that if your horses have not been vaccinated for rabies in the last 12 months that you contact your veterinarian and formulate a plan to get them vaccinated. The vaccines that are available require that your horse(s) be vaccinated once per year to maintain protective immunity to the disease. You can purchase the rabies vaccine at some of the animal supply stores and administer the vaccine yourself, however; most states laws do not recognize that an animal has been vaccinated unless the rabies vaccine was administered by a veterinarian. Therefore, if the horse was to attack or bite someone or was exposed to a known rabid animal and was given the vaccine by someone other than a veterinarian it most likely that it would be treated as an unvaccinated animal. If you have further questions or would like further information please contact Colorado Equine Veterinary Services at (719)749-9500 or you can go to our website at www.coequinevets.com

All of the doctors and staff at Colorado Equine Veterinary Services wish you a very successful new year and a great show season.
